

A Formal Love Story

For All the Lovers Out There

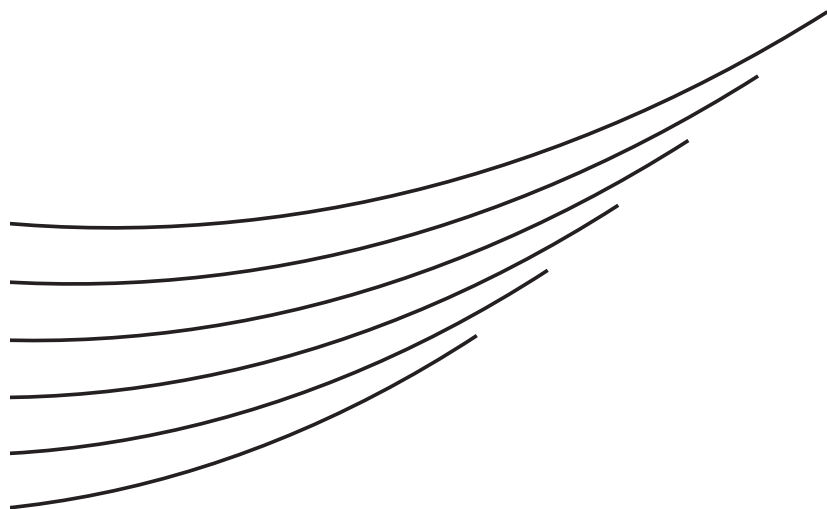

Once upon a time there lived a circle and a square. They didn't know each other. At least not yet that is. Their meeting was pure fate, but I'll get to that part in a bit. Now, where was I? Oh yes. My dear friend Circle. Circle was a very well rounded figure, having many different hobbies and interests. Circle was born into a family of renowned circus performers. Her mother was an unicyclist and her father was a ring-master. Circle too joined her parents and travelled around the world performing in the ring.

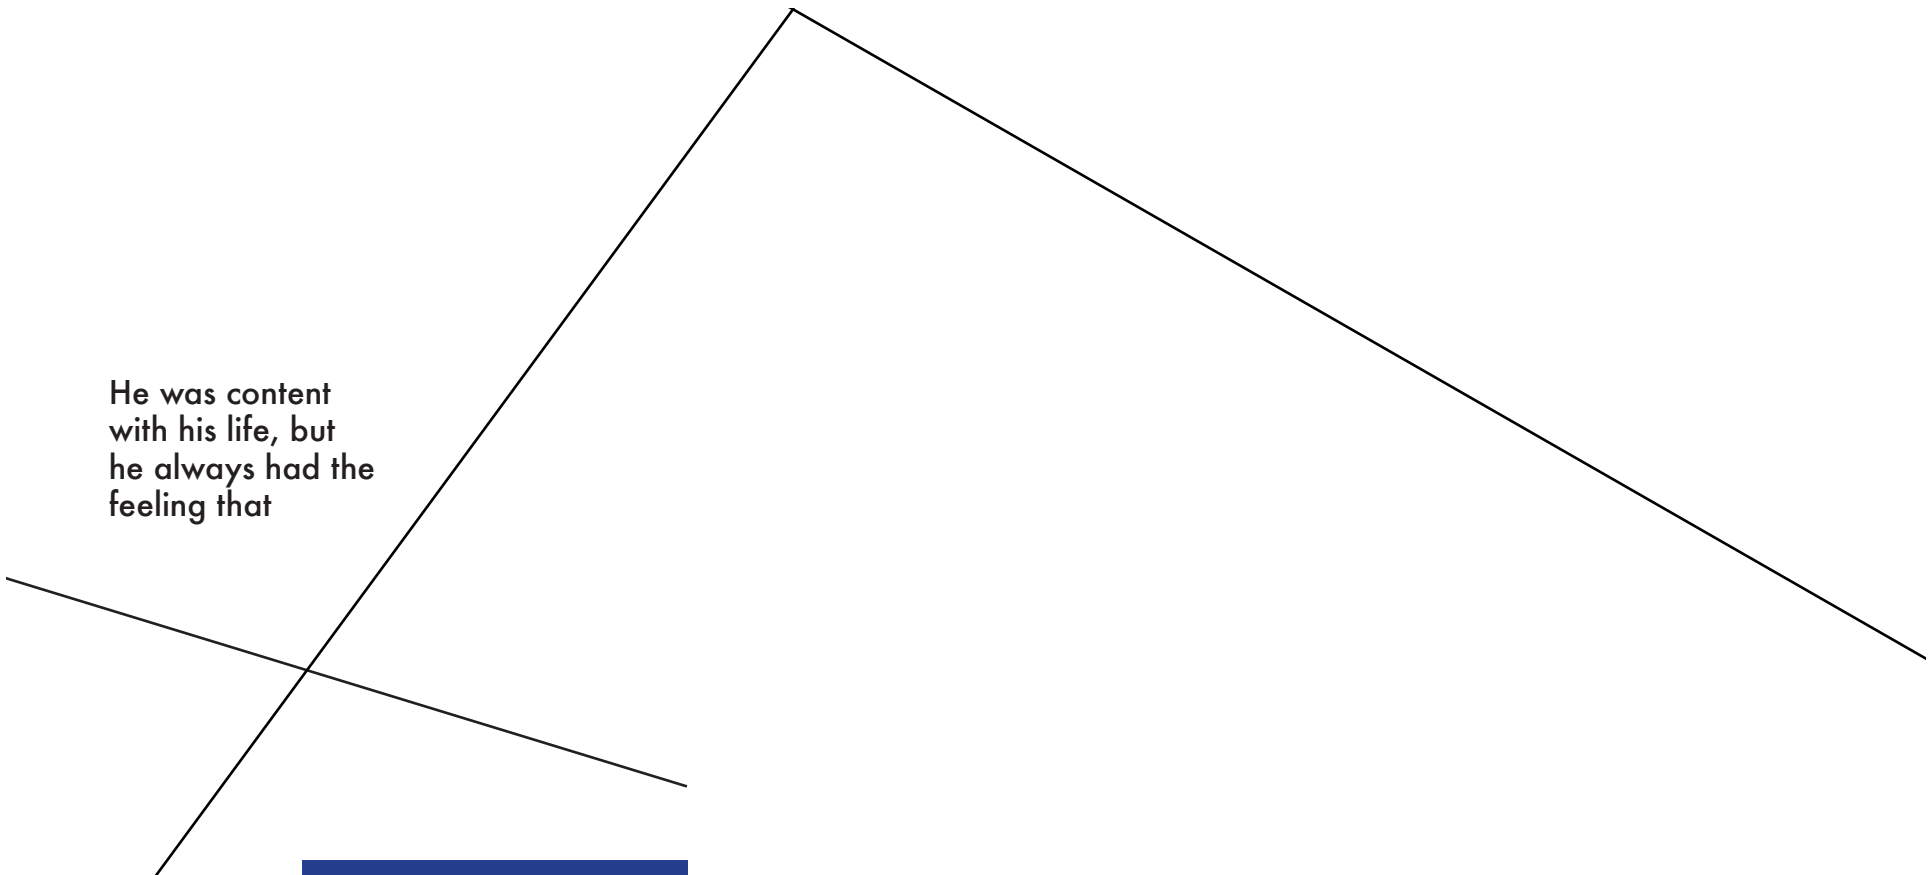

After many years of circling the globe, performing in show after show, Circle became tired. She did not want to be apart of this unending cycle any longer. Circle wanted to be encompassed in a different life. So, she decided to leave her circus life behind and change her surroundings. Circle settled down in a small town in the countryside.

Square grew up on a farm his whole life. In fact, he has never been anywhere else outside of that small town. Square was an old fashioned type. He was very straight edged and often times a strict figure, which he got from his father, but he was always fair and square to his peers. Square had very rugged and conventional features.

He was content with his life, but he always had the feeling that something was missing.

He longed to get out of the small town and see what else existed out in the world, but he was afraid.

Until he met Circle...

One day Square was out in the field when he noticed a figure strolling in the distance. As Circle approached closer and closer, Square was able to see her more clearly. He had never seen anything so beautiful. Simultaneously, as Circle reached nearer and nearer to Square, she noticed how handsome Square was and could not stop staring. The two were speechless. It was as though time had suddenly stopped and they were the only two figures still moving.

They finally greeted each other and talked for a while. They really seemed to enjoy each other's company. As time passed, they spent almost every day together. They were a perfect fit in my opinion. Circle loved how traditional Square was since she did not have a very traditional lifestyle growing up.

Square loved Circle's encompassing attitude about life and her adventurous nature. Together, they really balanced each other out. Circle felt much more grounded when she was with Square and Square no longer felt like he was a stick in the mud when Circle was by his side.

It was love at first sight.

Together, they felt that anything was possible.

They felt whole.

They eventually settled down together and decided to build a family. They had 3 offspring whom they named Triangle, Ellipse and Polygon. Triangle took after his father with his straight edged and sharp personality, but at times, he could be rather obtuse. Ellipse, on the other hand, took after her mother with curvaceous features and encapsulating personality. Polygon was the wild child of the family, sometimes resembling both his father and his mother. It seemed almost as though Polygon had many personalities. They were a very defined family and they did not stop growing there.

Much later, the children of Circle and Square eventually grew up and had kids of their own, adding many new dynamics

to the family.

You can say that Circle and Square met by fate,

luck,
accident,
what have you.

Their story is rather ordinary,
but it did shape up to be a good one.

The End.
